What were the Fund costs for last year? (based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment)

Class Name	Cost of a $10,000 investment	Costs paid as a percentage of a $10,000 investment
Investor shares	$145	1.29%

How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

The Fund's Investor shares returned 24.14% for the trailing twelve months ended July 31, 2026, underperforming relative to the MSCI EAFE Net Total Return Index (the "benchmark"), which returned 24.33%.

International developed equities delivered strong returns over the period, outpacing U.S. equities, supported by resilient corporate earnings, continued investment in artificial intelligence (AI) infrastructure, and supportive central bank actions across major economies. Markets navigated meaningful volatility, including a first-quarter 2026 selloff tied to U.S.–Iran tensions that sent energy prices sharply higher. This was followed by a strong rebound in the second quarter, as initial reports of a potential cease-fire in early April supported a recovery in risk appetite. Domini, the Fund's Adviser, determines which companies meet its Impact Investment Standards. Wellington Management, the Fund's Subadviser, then selects Domini-approved securities and manages risk using proprietary quantitative models. In aggregate, Wellington's Quantitative Equity ("QE") model made a positive contribution to performance over the period, driven by positive performance from value and momentum factors and partially offset by negative performance from quality factors.

From a sector perspective, positive stock selection in Consumer Discretionary, Financials, Industrials, and Communication Services was partially offset by weaker selection in Information Technology and Materials. Sector positioning detracted overall, predominantly driven by the Fund's zero exposure to Energy, which was among the top performing sectors over the period. The Fund does not invest in the GICS Energy sector in accordance with Domini's exclusionary standards on fossil fuels. The top individual contributors were overweight positions in pharmaceutical company GSK and banking groups Banco Santander and ABN AMRO. The top detractors were an underweight position in semiconductor equipment supplier ASML and overweight positions in investment company 3i Group and accounting software company Sage Group.
